NEW YORK -- Brandon Routh, Gil Bellows, Martin Donovan and Carrie-Anne Moss are doing the "Unthinkable."

The quartet will join Samuel L. Jackson and Michael Sheen in the suspense thriller produced, financed and distributed by Senator U.S.

Routh and Bellows play members of an FBI anti-terrorism team run by Agent Brody (Moss). With the help of a black-ops agent (Jackson), they're assigned by an FBI director (Donovan) to interrogate an American Muslim man (Sheen) claiming to have nuclear bombs planted in three U.S. cities.

Gregor Jordan's "Unthinkable" will be one of the first high-profile projects from the new distributor run by Marco Weber, who recently left Germany-based Senator Entertainment. Weber and Caldecot Chubb are producing, with principal photography to begin Oct. 20 in Los Angeles. Kimmel International is handling worldwide sales.
